Proud sponsor of the NAB Leadership Foundation’s Celebration of Service to America Awards

HEARST television
Good evening, and welcome to the 26th annual Celebration of Service to America Awards. Thank you for joining us to help celebrate the work of local television and radio stations across the country. It is an honor to recognize this year’s group of awardees, not only for their positive deeds, but for their stewardship and devotion to their communities.

Whether it's uniting citizens after a deadly shooting, investigating acts of social injustice by government agents, inspiring dialogue between generations or delivering emergency supplies, broadcasters amaze us with their incredible public service campaigns. Their efforts demonstrate a sense of connection, urgency and action that prove why broadcasters are so essential in their communities. We hope you enjoy learning about their stories and that they inspire you to make a difference in your own neighborhoods and cities.

We also have the privilege of honoring Mutual of Omaha with our Corporate Leadership Award. For the past 115 years, Mutual of Omaha has embodied a philosophy centered around helping people in their time of need. Beyond their core business of providing financial services, they are extensively involved in charitable giving and have a deep commitment to environmental conservation. Some 60 years after the show’s original premiere, Mutual of Omaha’s “Wild Kingdom Protecting the Wild” currently boasts more than 1 million viewers each week.

Every day, thousands of broadcasters are seen in front of the cameras and heard over the airwaves, but some of their most important work happens outside the studio. Thank you for joining us as we applaud these local television and radio teams for their commitment to public service. We also extend our deep gratitude to our guests and sponsors.

To this year’s winners, we salute you!

An award-winning broadcast journalist, Joie Chen has led newscasts for local, national and international audiences, and covered news from around the world and nearly every state in the U.S.

She is most often recognized for her 10 years as an Atlanta-based anchor for CNN and CNN International, anchoring prime-time newscasts, talk shows and daily town hall format programs. She also created CNN NewsSite, the network’s first attempt to fully integrate its online and cable audiences. She won her first national Emmy as the lead correspondent covering the 1996 Olympic Park bombing.

In the early 2000s, she moved to Washington, D.C., as a CBS News correspondent covering the White House, Capitol Hill and reporting for all the network’s platforms and shows, including “CBS Evening News” and “CBS Sunday Morning.” Always interested in innovative formats, Chen left network news for a role as the lead executive of a startup that developed content platforms and newsrooms for nonprofit organizations, government agencies and corporate clients.

Chen returned to the newsroom in 2013 as anchor of Al Jazeera America’s flagship evening program, “America Tonight.” She anchored six nights a week from the studio at the Newseum and reported from three dozen states.

Today, Chen is a special contributor to “Matter of Fact with Soledad O’Brien,” a weekly magazine program by Hearst Television. Her recent work includes an extended interview with former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Stephen Breyer and reporting on underrepresented communities across the country.

Throughout her career, Chen has been active in journalism education and advancing the careers of young, multicultural journalists. She was an administrative leader for her alma mater, Northwestern University’s Medill School of Journalism, and the Poynter Institute for Media Studies. She has served on boards at Northwestern University, Elon University and the Accrediting Council in Education for Journalism and Media Communications. She is most proud of her 20+ years participating in JCamp, a program for multicultural high school journalists sponsored by the Asian American Journalists Association. She is a Chicago native and lives in Washington, D.C.
SERVING THE GREATER GOOD

TEGNA celebrates local broadcasters for their dedication and unwavering commitment to the communities they serve.

We proudly support the NAB Leadership Foundation for its efforts to recognize and honor the importance of community service in the media industry.
Coretta King’s voice speaks to your soul. Growing up in Memphis’ vibrant music community, she honed her passion for singing-songwriting with The Consortium Memphis Music Town, an organization founded and mentored by renowned Songwriter Hall of Fame inductee David Porter. King’s raw hooks have allured listeners to radio programming for the “Earle Augustus Show” (Soul Classics 103.5FM, iHeart V101.1FM), and she has opened for ‘90s R&B heavy hitter singer Michel’le. Since moving to Nashville, she has been featured at songwriting shows for The Bluebird Cafe, “Top Writer Series” and “Backstage Nashville” and has performed her music to support grassroots organization events focused on voting rights initiatives.

In 2020, King was a featured performer for BMI and Nexstar Media Group’s broadcast of the National Anthem, garnering nationwide attention for her chilling rendition. Last fall, she stirred audiences with her stories and songs at the 2023 Island Hopper Songwriter Festival in Captiva Island, Fl. King strives for her music not to solely “reflect the times,” as Nina Simone once said, but to transcend it. Currently she is working on new music and will release her single, “Essence of It All,” in early summer 2024. You can listen to her previous projects at corettakingmusic.com.
We congratulate this year’s winners and finalists—and express our gratitude to all local broadcasters who put their talent to work in support of their communities.

Brooks Pierce has served as attorneys and counselors for clients in the broadcasting industry for more than 50 years.

About Mutual of Omaha

Mutual of Omaha’s philosophy for ensuring business success is powered by a single tenet: We exist for our customers. Our mutuality is not just in our name; it shows up in everything we do. It is our purpose, our center of gravity, our wellspring, and it has enabled us to become a Fortune 300 company and thrive for 115 years.

Our company was founded on a simple principle: help people in their time of need. We put that principle into action not only through our products and services, but also through our charitable giving and involvement in the community.

Our corporate giving includes sponsorships of more than 70 nonprofit fundraising events, corporate grants in the local arts community, a robust employee volunteer program and representation by employees on local nonprofit boards. Since 2022, Mutual of Omaha has provided more than $22 million in support from the corporation and foundation to nonprofits. In 2023, employees from 36 states provided 12,000 volunteer hours to 289 nonprofit organizations.

About Mutual of Omaha’s “Wild Kingdom”

Since first airing in 1963, Mutual of Omaha’s “Wild Kingdom” has captivated audiences of all ages and marked the beginning of environmentalism in the United States. The beloved television series pioneered the nature adventure genre and took viewers to the far corners of the world to view wild animals in their natural habitats.

Hosts Marlin Perkins and Jim Fowler wrestled anacondas, swam with sharks and were chased by a herd of elephants — all while motivating a generation of Americans to participate in and pursue careers in wildlife conservation. Perkins participated in the creation of legislation to protect endangered species, resulting in the formation of the Endangered Species Act in 1973.

Today, Peter Gros and Dr. Rae Wynn-Grant follow in the footsteps of Marlin and Jim by hosting a new series, Mutual of Omaha’s “Wild Kingdom Protecting the Wild,” airing on NBC with more than 1 million viewers each week. “Protecting the Wild” was recently nominated for four Daytime Emmy Awards.

Some 60 years after the show’s original premiere, the core mission remains: to inspire a new generation to preserve species under threat of extinction in our modern world. Featuring the work of a new wave of conservationists — whether they’re scientists, wildlife experts or even members of the public — the show’s message is not one of despair, but hope.

Since the launch of the new series, “Wild Kingdom” has contributed more than $1 million to support wildlife conservation through partners such as Arbor Day Foundation, Association of Zoos and Aquariums’ Saving Animals From Extinction (SAFE) program and the National Wildlife Federation.
Mutual of Omaha was founded on a simple principle: help people in their time of need. We put that principle into action not only through our products and services, but also through our charitable giving, community involvement and wildlife protection.

INVESTING IN THE FUTURE
LEADERS OF BROADCASTING

The NAB Leadership Foundation provides immersive career development programs and resources to attract, train and develop the talent of our next generation of leaders.

BROADCAST LEADERSHIP TRAINING (BLT)
The Broadcast Leadership Training program is a 10-month executive MBA-style program for senior level broadcasters, particularly women or persons of color, who aspire to advance as group executives or station owners.

EMERSON COLEMAN FELLOWSHIP (ECF)
The Emerson Coleman Fellowship is a four-month opportunity that provides a real-world experience in television programming and production. Internships take place at host television stations and fellows are assigned projects by the program director.

MEDIA SALES ACADEMY (MSA)
The Media Sales Academy is an six-month fellowship program that prepares senior level college students and recent graduates for internships and entry-level sales positions at broadcast stations in media sales.

TECHNOLOGY APPRENTICESHIP PROGRAM (TAP)
The Technology Apprenticeship Program is a six-month, educational, hands-on training program designed to train, inform and recruit a diverse technology workforce. This program bridges the gap between emerging technology and engineering needs within the broadcast community.

MULTICULTURAL MEDIA PRODUCING PROGRAM (MMPP) FELLOWSHIP
The Multicultural Media Producing Program is a one-year certificate program at Ivy Tech Community College in Indianapolis, Ind. It is designed to train students to become television news producers and newsroom leaders. The NAB Leadership Foundation will provide students with additional education during the school year.

CAREER FAIRS
Career fairs are held throughout the year at in-person and virtual events. Let us introduce you to our program participants and help your hiring teams connect with qualified and ready-to-hire individuals.

We depend on support from broadcasters, corporations, foundations and individuals to help us build a bright, diverse and innovative future for the broadcast industry. Our industry’s future depends on great people: let’s connect and build that future together.
